

Good to know

- Designer Cynthia Rowley is partnering with Babies "R" Us to offer Hooray by Cynthia Rowley apparel—everything from bibs to playwear, in bold prints, preppy plaids, and festive patterns (from $5.99 to $39.99).
- Be an insider: Houseparty.com lets you apply to host parties that are sponsored by brands from Kraft to Procter & Gamble to Mattel, so you and your friends can be the first to try new food, games, and more. Up for grabs right now is the Canon Picture Perfect Holiday Party. (houseparty.com/redbook)
- September is Food Safety Education Month. Avoid food-borne illness by learning about outbreaks and recalls before they hit the headlines. Log on to safetables.org and sign up to receive e-alerts.
- Fast food for a cause: From August 31 through October 1, Sonic Drive-In will donate $100,000 a week to donorschoose.org to help purchase much-needed public school supplies. The average teacher spends $1,200 annually from his or her own paycheck on books, art materials, and other classroom basics.

